

Back To My Bookshelves Reading Challenge

In 2018, challenge yourself to cut back on buying new books and read from your own bookshelves. Choose one book each month from your personal library that falls under one of the 20 categories below. By the end of the year, you will have read a total of 12 books in 12 different categories. Have fun exploring and reacquainting yourself with your books!

- A book you received as a birthday gift
- A book you borrowed from someone but never returned
- A book you bought at an independent bookstore
- A book you have two copies of for some reason
- A book missing its dust jacket
- A book you've had since college or your late teens
- A book recommended by a friend
- A book with an inscription in it
- A book written by someone you know
- A book you bought because you thought it made you look smart
- A book you've written notes in
- A book you consider one of your top 10 favorites
- A book given to you by a family member
- A book you bought because a teacher recommended it
- A book that has been dog-eared
- A book you bought based on a celebrity recommendation
- A book you bought while traveling
- A book with a worn or broken spine
- A book you've had since childhood
- A book you were supposed to read for a book club, but never got to
